

Call for contributions HOpeR 2022 – Bogotá, Colombia

Objective

The Healthcare Operational Research (HOpeR) graduate school aims at providing advance training regarding both problems and solution approaches, in the field of healthcare operational research. Speakers will discuss challenges in implementation and present strategies to engage stakeholders during the different stages of the research process. Participants will have the opportunity of having feedback from leading experts in the field and building a collaboration network.

Young researchers, post-docs, qualified M.Sc. and Ph.D. students, and both academic and healthcare professionals are invited to participate in the Healthcare Operational Research graduate school, HOpeR. The 2022 edition includes six speakers on a diverse set of OR techniques and its applications on healthcare (e.g., capacity planning, emergency care systems, homecare operations, patient's prioritization, and more).
