

Assistant Professor Department of Industrial Engineering Dalhousie University

Assistant Professor
Department of Industrial Engineering
Dalhousie University

The Department of Industrial Engineering at Dalhousie University invites applications for a probationary tenure-track position at the Assistant Professor level, from candidates with outstanding research and teaching abilities in industrial engineering.

Dalhousie University is one of Canada's oldest universities. Founded in 1818, it attracts more than 18,000 students from around the world and is located in Halifax on Canada's East Coast. With a population of about 400,000 people, Halifax is the capital city of Nova Scotia and the educational, cultural and economic hub of Atlantic Canada.

The successful candidate is expected to have an earned doctorate in industrial engineering or a closely related field. The selection criteria include teaching, research, ability to collaborate with industry, and engineering experience. Candidates must be a registered professional engineer in Canada, or eligible and committed to registration in Nova Scotia. Preference will be given to candidates with work experience in industry.

Duties will include teaching at both the undergraduate and graduate levels and research in the areas of industrial engineering and operational research. Please refer to <http://www.dal.ca/faculty/engineering/industrial.html> for details about the Department.

The deadline for the application is August 15, 2016. Applications, including a curriculum vitae, and a statement of research and teaching interests, should be sent to:
